All Music.Q: How to add comments to a GitHub-hosted README in Git I've written my own bash script to create a README for a GitHub hosted project using the Git and Markdown formatting tools. I'd like to add some comments to the README, like: Update note: This utility is hosted at github.com/some-username/my-project Is there an easy way to add comments to a GitHub-hosted README file? I've experimented with using the various GitHub attributes (such as: author, description, keywords,...) and even added a "Contributors" section in the README, but I haven't been able to find a way to "tag" a user's contributions. Is there any way to do this? A: You can provide a Notes section for each project on GitHub, which looks like this: ## notes 6d1f23a050
