In real-time ultrasound imaging, the quality of the displayed images is directly related to the noise level. A simple waveform is usable by means of a black-white display. Noise is reduced by using subliminal color schemes. A color scheme makes the image more interpretable but means that more detail has to be removed to make room for the color. For this reason, a simple black-white display is often preferred. Various methods have been proposed for reducing speckle noise in ultrasound imaging. Various schemes for modulating the amplitude of the driving signal have also been proposed. However, in the above-referenced patents and applications, it was disclosed that the waveform shape could also be varied. It is an object of the present invention to provide a method of ultrasound imaging with a waveform which provides for reduced speckle in the displayed images. According to the present invention there is provided a method of ultrasound imaging with reduced speckle by the steps of receiving at least two ultrasound signals to produce at least two ultrasound images, interpolating the received signals to provide at least two interpolated ultrasound images and calculating the average of at least two interpolated ultrasound images. By such a method, speckle is reduced since it is reduced by averaging.Q: Timezone issue with jQuery datepicker (no time) I have a very simple scenario where I need to change date input from the default time format to no time format, but if I do this the datepicker is not working. The date format is simply dd/mm/yy. See my fiddle (linked below) and you can try changing the date from the dropdown to see that it doesn't work. $("#datepicker").datepicker();
$("#datepicker").datepicker("setDate", $.datepicker.parseDate('dd/mm/yy', '10 6d1f23a050
